OSHA Construction Deadline: September 23, 2017

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has updated its respirable crystalline silica exposure standards in an effort to protect workers from a range of life threatening and deadly diseases. By September 23, 2017, more than 600,000 construction related workplaces must comply with those new standards.

We at Hupp ToyotaLift have teamed up with Nilfisk, one of the world's leading manufacturers of professional cleaning equipment, to offer the only integrated floor-to-ceiling silica dust control solution to assist with new compliance standards.
